

CONSORTIUM AGREEMENTS BETWEEN SCHOOLS

Two or more institutions may enter into a consortium or contractual agreement so that a student can continue to receive FSA funds while studying at a school or organization other than his or her “home” institution. (The home school is the one that will grant the student’s degree or certificate.)

Under a consortium or contractual agreement (including those for study abroad programs), the home school must give credit for the courses taken at the other school(s) on the same basis (in terms of instructional time) as if it provided that portion itself. The underlying assumption of the agreement is that the home school has found the other schools or organizations academic standards to be equivalent to its own, and a completely acceptable substitution for its own instruction.

However, a home school may decline to give credit for courses in which a student earns a grade of “D” at the other school. Although a home school has a policy of accepting grades of “D” or above earned at the home school, it does not have to accept credits earned for courses at the other school for which a student earns a “D”.

Grades received through either a consortium or contractual agreement does not have to be included in the calculation of the student’s grade point average (GPA).

Students who are interested in setting up a consortium agreement should contact the Financial Aid office.
